WHERE FLYERS ALIGHT AND CABLES RADIATE

The Azores Important Communication Center.

Washington.—When Miss Ruth Elder tried to fly across the Atlantic and dropped into the sea near the Azores she failed in her purpose but emphasized the increasing importance of the Azores as a mid-Atlantic communication center, says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"And within the Azores group Fayal is the most important so far as contact with the outside world is concerned. Sao Miguel is larger, and Angra, the capital on Terceira, is a better port than Horta, on Fayal.

"But Fayal is the communication hub of the Atlantic, with spokes reaching out to Europe, the two Americas, and Africa. On Fayal island there are four cable companies, two American, one English and one German. There are more than 150 young 'wire pushers,' as the dispatching operators are called, and each group has its own mess.

"Arriving at Fayal in the daytime one sees a ribbon of road around the island, and the whitewashed villages with a church for a pendant among the ivory bits that are strung along this 35-mile circular tour. Out near some detached rocks near the west end there is a lighthouse which appears at first to be a minaret. From there to Horta, the town, is a steep declivity several hundred feet high, so that the road has to sweep up to avoid washing itself to death in the glistening surf.

"Amid smiling seas the Azores, from November to March, usually wear a cloud blanket so often that the fine cone of Pico, which sounds like Orange Pekoe but simply means 'peak,' is hidden as an approaching ship swings to the north. Pico has a separate island to itself and since Pico is an active volcano, this is as it should be.

The "Fairy Town of Horta."

"Twilight had fallen when the orficer's vessel finally came alongside the fairy town of Horta, how made up of white blotches against a dark hillside with electric lights, hiding the details like the sun's candles during the change of scene in 'The Miracle.' Horta is not really a port, since it lacks a green light to complement the red one on the end of the single breakwater. So passengers land in a launch which tosses up and down in the swell and gives the folks a thrill for their money.

"A Portuguese, with wide-brimmed fuzzy hat, V-neck white sweater and sideburns, ran the launch. He took a liking to us and showed us around the town which, like a certain flower, had folded itself up with the setting of the sun.

"Horta's chief claim to fame seems to be that Mark Twain and the cable companies have honored it with their attention. Mark said something about a tiny fort here which would have to be taken back up the volcanic slopes in case of war. That was the days before the Azores were the alighting spot for transoceanic flights

"Horta greets one with a monic sidewalk in the Portuguese style, and many of its buildings are faced with glazed tile so that as one walks down the street at night he seems to be threading his way along some peculiar bathroom in an old Mogul palace or a Chicago boarding house.

"The street, as we walked down it, and passed so many churches that Horta seemed to be the Bokhara of the Catholic world, was being used for sentimental purposes, for Horta has its nightly rehearsals of the balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet. The balconies are narrow and long, looking like sample bits of steel fence hung up on display.

In a Horta "Movie."

"Our side-burned mentor took us to a movie theater fronted with salmon tiles. We secured a box in the lower of three horseshoes around which the town was arranged. If the social strata hindered their sense relative positions at home that they do in the theater, then the Horta palaces would be down near the sea and the lowlier and more grimy members of society up near the lava line above the main part of the town.

"From June to September the whole island of Fayal is marked out with blue-and-white hydrangea hedges and is one of the loveliest spots on earth, with sometimes smoking Pico 'fujiyaming' in the background.

"The Azores are certainly the result of tremendous volcanic eruptions that have continued to change their physical aspect ever since their discovery in the Fifteenth century. On every hand are evidences of former upheavals, from the gray lava stones that are used in the construction of houses and the building of roads to the underlying streaks of ashes that are visible in places where the surface soil has washed away, and the many cup-shaped craters and beautiful lakes on the tops of the mountains.

"Violent earthquakes have disturbed the Azores during the centuries since their discovery. The annals of the island vie with those of Italy in graphic accounts of the ever-interesting and terrible volcanic phenomenon. Cities were buried, mountains disappeared and sent their ashes to unbelievable distances; islands hundreds of feet high suddenly appeared and as suddenly disappeared, and flames of fire illuminated whole islands and their intervening waters."

Sunflower Specialty

The bureau of plant industry says that it is not uncommon for a sunflower to produce double flowers. The species can be perpetuated by planting the seeds of the double-flowered plant. While every flower will not be double, there will be an increased number. This has been worked out by botanists in the past and seed for double-flowered sunflowers are now on the market.

LIVING INDIAN MAY BE 180 YEARS OLD

Doubters Admit He Must Be at Least 145.

Los Angeles, Calif.—Thirty years before the Stars and Stripes were adopted as the American standard in the midst of the War of Independence, a man who still lives first saw the light of the sun, if Indian gossip be true.

The man is Captain Sam, or Sam Fish, whose cabin is in the Indian village near June lake in the high Sierras.

No one knows how old is Captain Sam. Residents of the region affirm he is the oldest man in California, perhaps the oldest in the world.

Captain Sam does not say. What matters a few moons more, a few moons less, when so many have passed over his head?

Tribal tales indicate that Captain Sam is one hundred and eighty years of age. White men who scout this figure admit it is not improbable he had seen 145 winters.

There are more than one hundred Indians in Captain Sam's family. Those far along in years recall tales he once told at camp fires, years ago. Nowadays, white men strive in vain to have him impart his memories of the past.

The stories of his relatives indicate that Captain Sam was a grown man, a leader of his tribe, when the Donner party went through the upper Owens valley nearly a century ago.

This was the first party of whites to traverse the region. Relatives of Captain Sam recall the accounts he gave them of his astonishment at seeing white men and women for the first time.

Often Captain Sam sits in the sun by his cabin door, holding in his arms his latest descendant, a papoose of three months. He has lost track of the generations of his family. The papoose is believed to be his great-great-great-great-grandson.

Yearly the Plutes and other tribes hold a four-day festival of sports and tribal dances at June lake. Nowadays, Captain Sam is carried thither on a birch litter, and is honored with revivals of ancient ceremonies.

Each year when the festival is completed—this year it was held the first four days of July—the celebrators wonder if Captain Sam will be with them when the next fete comes around.

Egyptian Queen's Tomb, 4,500 Years Old, Found

Cambridge, Mass.—Discovery of the tomb of Queen Meresankh III, which closes gaps in Egyptian history of the Fourth dynasty, has been made by the Harvard university museum of fine arts expedition, says a report received here from Dr. George A. Reisner, head of the exploring party. Queen Meresankh was the great-granddaughter of Queen Hetepheres and King Snefrn, mother and father of Cheops, builder of the great pyramid.

The report says the newly discovered tomb is remarkable for the vivid colors of the relics and inscriptions which seem fo have retained all their brilliancy after 4,500 years.

The burial chamber was plundered thousands of years ago and no valuables have been found. Two inscriptions, one on either side of the doorway, reveal that 272 days elapsed between the queen's death and her burial.

Plan Loud Speakers for Indian Mosque

Calcutta.—Microphones and loud speakers are to be installed in the new Nakhuda mosque here, which when completed will hold more than 14,000 worshipers. There will also be two minarets equipped with powerful electric lights for calling the faithful to worship.

The old historic Nakhuda mosque was demolished some time ago and a new edifice is now being constructed to take its place. This building will be of reinforced concrete with a steel frame and will be complete with all the latest devices of modern science which will enable the congregation to hear better the injunctions of the imam.

The pulpit of the imam will be on the first floor but will be visible from the two floors above.

German Family Holds Longevity Record

Berlin.—The record for longevity probably belongs to a German family named Luntzel. Frau Franziska Quenstl, born Luntzel, who lives in Berlin, has just celebrated her hundredth birthday. Of her nine brothers and sisters three lived to be more than one hundred years old and five were past ninety when they died.

Frau Quenstl, who was born on a farm, organized the first League of Patriotic Women in Germany and was its president for 25 years. She is in full possession of all her faculties, and follows current events with keen interest. The Prussian prime minister sent her an official message of felicitation on her birthday, and accompanied it with a piece of porcelain from the state porcelain works as a gift of the government.

Long Toots Save Lives

To show what a little thing will make a difference, it is learned the old crossing signal of two long and two short toots by a locomotive results in more crossing accidents than the new method in which the longest toot is given last. The old way the most noise was made when the engine was farthest from the crossing.—Copper's Weekly.

ANCIENT TEMPLES BROUGHT TO LIGHT

Excavators in Palestine Make Rich Find.

Alexandria, Egypt.—Further important discoveries have been made by the Palestine expedition of the University museum of Philadelphia under Alan Rowe which is excavating at Beisan, the Bethshan of the Bible. Two new Canaanite temples of 1500 B. C. have been unearthed.

In one of them among the other objects of value and interest there have been found a bronze figurine, covered with goldfoil, representing a god seated, with his right arm raised and a beautiful lapislazuli scarab with a cartouche of sesostris.

On a level prevtously identified, with Rameses II, a door jamb has been discovered showing for the first time the actual figure of the builder of the Temple of Dagon, mentioned in the first book of Chronicles, together with an inscription supplying missing titles.

Here also have been found scarabs of Rameses II, and Thutmes IV, and a curious stone, having at the top the head of a deity with a figure holding a captive whose legs are kicking the air and below a stand with four human-shaped legs. The identity of this deity and the significance of the stone are unknown.

Other discoveries include a fine Egyptian faience finger ring, bearing the sacred eye.

Further proof of Cretan and Cypriot influences in this area 3,000 years ago is revealed in the shape of the handle of a pottery vessel with two groups of linear signs, similar in part to Cretan linear writing and in part to the Cypriot Archaic alphabet.

There also have been unearthed a finely made figure of a bull, a child's rattle of clay with a couple of small stones inside it, a very unusual pot with a strainer spout and a movable disk-like strainer fitting its mouth, a beautifully made bronze axhead and two buckles of bds.

The expedition has been working at Tell-El-Hosn, which means mounds of fortress—where eight levels have been identified as existing from before the time of Amenophis III to that of the crusades, covering 35 centuries. Most of the treasures, whereof those mentioned are only a part were, except where otherwise stated, made at the earliest levels. The expedition is now engaged on the lowest level which promises to yield rich deposits.

British Grant Beloit Permit for Research

Beloit, Wis.—Permission to do research work in British East Africa has been gained by Logan museum of Beloit college, according to an announcement by Dr. George L. Collie, curator, and the next few years may see the museum doing work there.

The territory is rich in remains of Australoid man which Doctor Collie says, was the first real man. He existed 25,000 years ago and rapidly spread all over the world, he says. Aurignacian remains have been found in France, Czechoslovakia, Algeria, and in southern Africa. In British East Africa 60 skeletons have been uncovered in two years, while Europe has spent 100 years in uncovering 40 such skeletons.

The college museum already has two skeletons, both from Algeria. One, the skeleton of a child, was found a year ago, while the other, of a mature man, was uncovered only a month ago and will soon be brought to the museum for permanent housing.

Sacred Cat Keeps Eye Open for Four Months

Boston.—Dr. John A. O'Connell, Dorchester veterinarian, has a rajah's sacred cat which none of the doctor's family has been able to down or close an eye in the four months the animal has been domiciled with the doctor. It is said Mesesick, and a naval officer brought it from the interior of Siam.

The cat is friendly, and Dr. O'Connell says its constant restlessness and apparent watchfulness are due to desire to communicate with persons. The cat's fame has been constantly growing, and one offer of $300 was made and was promptly refused.

Mesesick has a yowel which is uncanny and his purr is like that of a tiger.

National Monuments Sought for Saratoga

Troy, N. Y.—Congress will be asked to appropriate more than $1,000,000 to establish two national memorials on the Saratoga battlefield, leaders in the observance of the battle's sesquicentennial assert.

Horton D. Emmond, assemblyman from Saratoga county, will ask the state legislature at its next session to authorize the purchase of the remaining 2,000 acres of the battlefield and also of additional land at Wallomsac, where the Battle of Bennington was fought, and at Oriskany. George O. Slingerland, mayor of Mechanicville, has announced a movement to establish a museum of the Revolution in a house suitable for visible from Massachusetts and Vermont.

Safety From Lightning

The weather bureau says that inside a steel frame building, a reinforced concrete building, or a house with properly installed lightning rods, is a safe place to be during a thunderstorm. Inside a house of any kind, and well away from the walls, is better than being out in the open. Especially dangerous places are close to a wire fence, under a tall tree, and on the top of a hill.

DAVID'S CHAMPIONS THE OPPRESSED

LESSON TEXT—Micah, chs. 3, 5 and 6.

GOLDEN TEXT—What doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God?—Micah 6:8.

DEVOTIONAL TOPIC—What God Requires of Us.

ADDITIONAL TOPICS FOR PRIMARY AND JUNIOR AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Inspires Us. INTERMEDIATE AND ADULT TOPIC—Present Day Interpretation of Micah.

Micah prophesied during the reign of Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah, in Judah. His messages largely concerned the sins of Samaria and Jerusalem. He proclaimed impending judgment upon the wicked leaders of the two kingdoms and foretold the coming of the Messiah.

I. Judgment Denounced (3:1-3).

1. Sins of the rulers (v. 1).

It is not a matter of wonder that God's people are in bondage to sin and Satan, when we behold the sins of their leaders.

2. Sins of the priests (v. 2).

Micah came into a time of great apostasy. Even the priests, who should have been the spiritual guides of the people, were guilty of the grossest forms of sin. They were willing to teach for hire, and their decisions were governed by the size of the bribe which was offered them. They did what they could to please the people, and were not concerned in their mind. They deceived themselves to the devising of evil.

3. Sins of the prophets (vv. 5-8).

The prophets were also wicked. They preached for the money they could get, and refused to preach when no bribe was forthcoming. They were guilty of leading the people astray. Instead of speaking the truth, they spoke lies. Instead of warning the people of their sins, they encouraged them in their evil ways. They were responsible for the fact that there will be no escape from the coming judgment for those who destroy the people.

II. Controversy (6:1-13).

1. God's way to go to a certain point in their sinful course, but eventually God's requirements shall be met.

God called upon the mountains and hills to witness against Israel (v. 1). God had turned a deaf ear to the lamentations of His unfaithful creation was in witness against them, and the guilty party left to state the case.

2. God's witness against the universe sufficient (v. 2). God and allows His standing as a witness against Him. God presents His mercies unto them (v. 3).

3. God's demand for the charge against Him (vv. 3-5). God had been brought, the Lord called upon their consciences the light of His great mercies.

4. Israel's answer (vv. 6-7). Israel brought them out of Egypt (v. 6).

5. God's answer (v. 8). God's answer more for us who have been in bondage to sin and Satan. God has given us before them a trio of leaders:

(1) The lawgiver; Aaron, the priest and Miriam, the prophetess, to lead us witness.

(2) Balak's curse into a blessing through Balaam (v. 5).

(3) Jehovah's righteousness (vv. 4-5). Israel's great question, "Wherewith shall we come before the Lord?" God did not desert them in the charge against them by the Almighty. Jehovah's answer (v. 8).

(4) Israel's reply. Strict equity was to be the basis of their dealings with God.

(5) Israel's mercy." The heart was to be humbly with thy God." Israel recognizes that we are to walk humbly with our God, with no claim upon Him but His pardoning love.

III. Spiritual Power

1. Israel's power is developed in accordance with God's requirements (v. 9). Israel's sins are developed. God's people are to try to help others, the sinful shall not be established in their sins shall grow.—D. L. Moody.

HIXBURG

Joe W. Davis, who was operated on in Richmond, for appendicitis is suffering a relapse and his many friends around here are much uneasy as to his condition.

There will be preaching in the Baptist Church at this place on Sunday, November 20th, at 11 o'clock by Rev. Gordon, the public is invited.

Mr. Euroy Chick, game warden near Olive Branch Church, got hold of some of the boys that always run in and reap the best of the game a few days before the season opens and we here feel the results of his services. We need a game protector on this side of the county line to look after the trespassers between here and Pamplin.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Marshall were right sick last week but are much better at this writing.

Messrs. E. W. and H. E. Gilliam, of Lynchburg, are here spending a few days with Mr. E. P. Sears at the old home place and enjoying the sport of the season.

Our farmers are busy cutting feed and sawing wood.

EVERGREEN

Hunting season is here. The city cousins will be visiting us this week killing the poor little birds and other game.

Z. E. Cheatham continues to suffer from an infected hand, which is being treated in a Lynchburg hospital.

W. C. Farrar is ill at the home of his son, O. P. Farrar.

J. R. Gunter is still confined to his bed. His friends hope he will soon be on the road to recovery.

Miss Madian Lee who has been spending some time in Lynchburg has returned to her home.

Mrs. J. R. Conner had as her guest last week Miss Sadie Snell of Crewe.

Miss Elsie Marks was the week-end guest of Mrs. J. R. Conner.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Conner and Misses Sadie Snell and Elsie Marks motored to "Hill City" Saturday.

Wade Gallier of Crewe, spent the week-end with friends here.

Mrs. Will Garrett is on the sick list.

After undergoing a serious operation in Lynchburg hospital, Mrs. Tipton Jennings has returned to her home much improved.

We are glad to welcome Mrs. T. T. Evans and family back in our community.

Mrs. W. J. Smith has as her guests her grandfather, Afred of Bristol.

The Ladies of the M. E. church will have an oyster and meat supper at the school house November 26, at night. Come out and help a good cause and we will thank you.

Southside

J. W. Coleman of Lynchburg, visited his mother, Mrs. A. E. Coleman, last week.

Miss Emma Sue Coleman spent last week in Crewe, Va., with Mrs. O. Shaubach, where she had a fine time.

Mr. and Mrs. Royall B. Ferguson and daughter Etta, of Lynchburg, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ferguson.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Chenault of Lynchburg, spent Sunday with her mother, Mrs. A. E. Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Odor and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Odor spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Cawthorn, at Evergreen.

A. B. Ferguson spent the week-end with home people.

Mrs. Barnard of Lynchburg, spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. R. F. Burke.

W. P. Colemac and Mrs. T. W. Odor have returned from a motor trip to Washington, D. C.

Little John Randolph Holycross who has been quite sick with flue, is better at this writing.

VERA

Corn shuckings have begun. Some farmers are getting tobacco ready for market.

Many have also been sawing wood in this section, getting ready for Christmas.

I tell you the "hunters" are preparing and there are lots of happy hearts preparing for a big turkey as the season is most here.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Abbit and son John, of Newport News, and daughter, Miss Fraces Abbit who is teaching in Roanoke, spent "Armistice Day", and the week-end at Vera.

Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Robertson and little son, and Mr. and Mrs. Wells, all of Lynchburg, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Robertson.

Mrs. Taylor, of Richmond, was the week-end guest of Miss Julia Gunter.

Miss Neldia Robertson and Mr. and Mrs. Wright, of Lynchburg, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. George Robertson,

Rev. and Mrs. S. B. Tucker, and son S. B. Jr., of Mecklenburg County, called on their friends, around Vera Sunday, and we were glad to see them.

The W. M. U. of New Hope Church met at the home of Mrs. F. A. O'Brien's Saturday, and had a very good meeting and a good attendance and had two new members After the meeting was over, the members had a social hour and Mrs. O'Brien served fruits, which all enjoyed very much.

Mrs. T. H. Robertson, has a quilting last week she had ten ladies present and served a delightful dinner, they quilted five quilts and all left jolly and happy and wishing Mrs. Robertson to have another quilting party soon.

Mrs John W. Beale, carried her little daughter, Frances, to the Blueridge Sanitorium, Friday; we hope she will be greatly improved and be home soon.

Miss Reva Turnes, of Lynchburg, spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. R. H. Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Mr. and Mrs. McCormick. Mr. Dewey Taylor and Miss Ruth Abbit, all of Lynchburg, spent Sunday at Vera.

Beckham

It has been quite a while since there has been any writing from this place.

Well the hunting season opens today, and the hunters are making good of it, we hear the guns popping all around.

Mr. Hubbard Moor's little son, Hubbard Jr., was badly bitten by a dog last week that was thought to be mad.

Mr. Joe Martin and sister, Estelle, have gone to visit their brother, T. H. Martin at Louisa, and were accompanied by Miss Dorothy Martin and Mrs. Edwin Moore.

Mrs. Eural Martin is at home again after an operation. She is still improving.

Our community was saddened by the death of Mrs. Lelia Booker on November 11th which occured at the home of her brother Mr. H. G. Harding. Mrs. Booker had been in declining health for some time, but was stricken down just a few weeks ago. She leaves to mourn her loss, one daughter, Mrs. Carrington Hudson, of Richmond, two sisters, Mrs. T. M. Taylor and Mrs. Ella Moore, both of this community and one half sister Mrs. Mollie LeGrand, Lynchburg, two brothers, Mr. Charlie Harding, of Stonewall, and Mr. H. G. Harding, where she made her home. The deceased was laid to rest in the family burying ground, with many relatives and friends present. The floral designs were many and beautiful.
